Force Needed To Preserve Peace, Hull Says

ALLIES URGED TO PLAN FOR JOINT ACTION

Secretary Says Big Units Must Be Ready For Prompt Action

FORCE THEME OF PARLEY

British, Russ Delegates Air Views At Big Three Assembly

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Secretary of State Cordell Hull opened the momentous world security conference today with an emphatic warning that the efforts of the delegates will fail unless they devise a peace organization backed by force.

Addressing the delegates of the three great powers, Great Britain, the United States and Russia, Hull said:

"The nations of the world should maintain, according to their capacities, sufficient forces available for joint action when necessary to prevent breaches of the peace."

Such a force, Hull said, "must be available promptly, in adequate measure, and with certainty."

Limited Audience

His words were spoken in what was formerly the music room of the private estate known as Dumbarton Oaks, before a limited audience of 42 delegates of the three nations, their clerical staffs, and the press. The public was not admitted, and the press will be excluded after today.

Following Hull's remarks, the conference was addressed by Sir Alexander Cadogan, chairman of the British delegation, and by Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, chairman of the Soviet delegation.

Force was the theme of the day. Cadogan took up that theme when he said that after the last war there was a feeling that force was in itself an immoral thing. But the conviction prevails today, he said, "that it is only by the victorious remaining strong and united that peace can be preserved."

Force Not All

But force was not all. Hull urged the delegates to work for "the development of conditions of stability and well-being necessary for peaceful and friendly relations among nations."

And Cadogan declared that "freedom from fear and freedom from want" must be established to prevent "acute political instability."

In an obvious effort to meet the criticism expressed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and others against "big four domination," Hull outlined plans for bringing other nations into the organization.

After the three powers assembled today have reached an (Continued on Page Two)

Eye-Witness Tells How Great Barrage Pounded Huns In Valley Of Death

By Montague Taylor
CHAMBOIS, Aug. 21—I have just watched 20,000 men of field marshal Guenther Von Kluge's German Seventh Army trapped and pounded in the valley of death by one of the most concentrated and perfect artillery bombardments of the war.

As the artillery bombardment rose to an incredibly furious pitch, the Germans threw themselves in wild melee against the steel sides of the bottle-neck at Chambois.

The lane of death was filled with tangled and blasted vehicles, dead and wounded and troops scrambling on foot or on bicycles to escape the merciless fire.

Allied guns held fire for a short time while six German prisoners were escorted into the valley to tell their comrades that escape from the gap was impossible and urging surrender. Earlier I had watched hundreds of Germans scrambling from the cauldron of smoke and fire waving white sheets or rags as they crossed cornfields.

The grim figures passed on their way to the prisoners' cage, their faces and clothes bore bitter evidence of the hell they had experienced. They had wild, hunted looks. Uniforms were tattered and blood-stained.

Shelling continued throughout the night and at dawn tired gunners still threw shells into hot gun breaches. The bombardment seemed to pour through a large funnel to the valley road.

When the fury of the concentrated artillery fire made a temporary rent in the wall of smoke I could see blazing heaps of vehicles and the milling of human figures.

Once several horse-drawn carts with white flags flying came cantering out of the smoke into the cornfields to be picked up by our infantry. On the fringe of a great (Continued on Page Two)

BIG CARRIER, TWO CRUISERS HEAD FOR WAR

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 21—The 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Antietam and the 13,000-ton cruisers Chicago and Los Angeles were water-borne today following the largest launching at one time and one place in naval history.

Navy Under-Secretary Ralph A. Bard, principal speaker, addressing 50,000 Philadelphia Navy yard workers at the ceremonies, said, "I wish our enemies could see this triple launching" and declared, "in the world of the future America wants security for itself and security for all the other peaceful peoples of the world."

The Antietam was christened by Mrs. Willard F. Tydings, wife of the senior U. S. senator from Maryland; the Los Angeles was sponsored by Mrs. Fletcher Brown, wife of the mayor of the California city for which the vessel is named, and the Chicago by Mrs. Edward F. Kelly, wife of the mayor of Chicago.

Before the ceremonies, Alice Arntzen and Robert Larson, in behalf of Chicago schoolchildren, presented a check for $5,000 to Rear Adm. Milo F. Draemel, commander of the Fourth Naval District, representing Chicago pupils' penny contributions to the U. S. S. Chicago's ship welfare fund.

FLYING BOMBS CONTINUE TO CRASH ON ENGLAND

LONDON, Aug. 21—German flying bombs continued to crash down on Southern England, including the London area, during the night, adding to the steadily mounting toll of casualties and damage.

The continued use of the pilotless missiles by the Nazis has thus far served only to strengthen the determination of the British that Germany shall have no "soft peace" at the end of this war.

THIS IS PATTON'S LATEST 'SUNDAY PUNCH'

PLAYING A SPECTACULAR PART in the speedy, slam-bang drive on Paris is this new General Sherman tank known as the Medium Type M-4. According to the War Department, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's steamroller Third Army is spearheading its push with this juggernaut which mounts a 105-mm. howitzer. This is the first time that a weapon of such large bore has been used on a medium tank. ### KELLEY URGES YOUTH TRAINING

Past Legion Commander Tells Ohio Convention Of Peace Needs

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—Universal military service to strengthen the United States as a peace-loving nation, not as a military power, was advocated today by Lt. Col. Raymond J. Kelley, U. S. Army, past national commander of the American Legion. At the opening session of the Ohio Legion's war conference.

Col. Kelley, who recently completed a tour of U. S. outposts in the Pacific, along with Warren Atherton, present national commander, recalled how the Legion had advocated for many years "universal service in time of war."

He said: "One important provision we advocated was the compulsory training for a year of the youth of our nation, on reaching a certain age or on completion of high school work. This is practically covered in two bills now pending before Congress."

"We know from the experience gained in this war that the youths of this country would have been far better off had they had a year of military training in their late teens. It certainly would have done no harm whatever and in the light of events which have occurred would have shortened our preparation to meet the threat of our enemies."

STUDENTS AND HUNS FIGHT IN PARIS STREETS

WITH GEN. PATTON'S THIRD U. S. ARMY NEAR PARIS, Aug. 20—(Delayed)—Scores of armed clashes between French students and German soldiers within Paris were reported today by a refugee from that city who pleaded for immediate occupation of the French capital by American forces.

The refugee, who made contact with advanced American patrols near Versailles, reported that bloodshed and conflagrations menaced Paris as students with rifles battled German soldiers who fought back with hand grenades and machine-gun fire in an effort to stem citywide violence.

The German soldiers, the refugee said, had promised to withdraw from Paris if left alone, but the students believed that they planned to blow up the Seine bridges.

MEAT SHORTAGE PREDICTED FOR FALL IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Aug. 21—A warning of a fall meat shortage was seen today in the report of the Ohio Cooperative Crop Reporting service that the number of cattle on feed for market in Ohio on August 1 was 63 percent smaller than on the corresponding date of last year.

The state thus showed one of the sharpest decreases in its history, surpassed this year only by Michigan in the 11-state corn belt. Michigan showed a 65 percent decrease, the service said. In the entire belt the decrease was 41 percent. "Only in January, 1935, following the 1934 drought, was the percentage decrease larger than this year," the report stated. "The reduction from last year is around 700,000 head, and the number on feed on August 1 this year is the smallest for the date since 1937."

THIRD GERMAN GENERAL GIVES UP TO YANKEES

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN SOUTHERN FRANCE, Aug. 19—(Delayed)—The third German general to fall to the American army in as many days was captured here today early in the bitter battle for a town many miles inland from the Mediterranean shore.

The general's headquarters were in a house on the outskirts of town. A force headed by the armored car of Lieut. Paul Siedel, of Salida, Kan., attacked. As they passed the house a shot was fired from the window.

A light tank in the force whipped around and fired two rounds squarely into the building. The occupants, including the general and his staff, walked out and surrendered. The town fell to the Yank force several hours later.

The general was captured by an element of the same unit which seized Gen. Nurling, commander of the Nazi corps controlling the entire southern French coastline from Nice to Toulon yesterday.

Their latest captive was Gen. Hans Schubert who was identified as the civil affairs commander for the Bas Alpa district of Southern France.

The location of the capture cannot be disclosed as yet.

CORRESPONDENT KILLED

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Tom Treanor, correspondent of the National Broadcasting Company, has been killed in France, another NBC correspondent, John MacVane, revealed today. Treanor was killed when a jeep in which he was riding was run over by an American tank, MacVane said.

KIMMEL RAPS HARBOR PROBE

Report Lacks Basic Facts On Jap Sneak Attack, Says Accused Admiral

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, U. S. Navy commander at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, contended today that the report of the Roberts board of inquiry "does not contain the basic truths of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe."

Kimmel's statement was made in a letter to Sen. Harry S. Truman, of Missouri, Democratic vice presidential nominee, charging the latter with making "false statements" concerning his conduct as naval commander at the time of the sneak Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Kimmel took exception to charges made by Truman in an article in the August 26 issue of Collier's magazine, and asked that the Missouri refrain from repeating the allegations until a trial is held.

Congress has ordered that Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander at Pearl Harbor during the Jap attack, be brought to trial before December 7. The two commanders were dismissed from their posts after the Pearl Harbor raid and were ordered court-martialed for "dereliction of duty."

Kimmel specifically denied that he and Gen. Short were not on speaking terms, and intimated that the "real story" of Pearl Harbor may have been hamstrung by political machinations.

"The real story of the Pearl Harbor attack and the events preceding it has never been publicly told," Kimmel wrote. "This has not been my decision. For more than two and a half years I have been anxious to have the American people know all the facts..."

NAZIS EXPECT NEW THRUST IN NORTH EUROPE

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21—New Allied landings in Northern Europe, possibly including western Germany, are expected by German military leaders, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Svenska Dagbladet.

A German spokesman was quoted as saying: "The Allies will exploit their numerical superiority in men and material to open new fronts in North France, Belgium, Holland or West Germany."

JAPANESE GIVE UP AIR DEFENSE OVER MOLOCCAS

Unrelenting Yank Pressure Poses New Problem For Nip High Command

FORTRESSES DESTROYED

Aerial Strength Being Redistributed To More Remote Islands

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR'S HQ., NEW GUINEA, Aug. 21—Unrelenting pressure by American air forces was revealed today to have driven the Japanese high command to give up hope of contesting the air above Halmahera and the rest of the Moluccas and to move their air base from those islands to positions more remote from American attack.

Heavy U. S. neutralization raids on Halmahera, heart of the Moluccas and adjacent islands have reduced the military value of enemy air fields in the group to almost nothing. The continued raids, striking the last major Jap base between American positions on Dutch New Guinea and the Philippines are rapidly breaking up the continuous chain of island bases linking Japan with her stolen empire in the south.

Destroy Airfields

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique disclosed that many of the airfields in the erstwhile Jap stronghold of the Moluccas are being systematically destroyed by the Nipponese themselves. The enemy is rendering the fields useless by demolitions, by ploughing up runways, and by strewing landing areas with obstructions.

From these, self-destroyed air bases Jap aerial strength is being withdrawn to the Aroe islands, the Celebes, or to Java itself. This redistribution of Jap air strength is probably an attempt to bolster these bases before the inevitable invasion moves by U. S. ground forces.

Japs Forced Back

As American hammering of Halmahera forced the Japs back from the Moluccas, other U. S. squadrons continued their battering of Jap positions farther to the west.

A 35-ton weight of bombs smashed Jap supply areas near Wewak, in British New Guinea, and the oft-bombed New Britain bastion of Rabaul took another shellacking as 66 tons of explosives (Continued on Page Two)

FRENCH ARREST BOUISSON, HUN COLLABORATOR

DRAGUIGNAN, FRANCE, Aug. 20—Delayed—The biggest collaborationist "fish" yet caught in the invasion of Southern France is Ferdinand Bouisson, 71, barrel-shaped, bald, goateed ex-parliamentary member of the French chamber of deputies. Bouisson was found hiding in a friend's house four miles from St. Raphael. Like all other collaborators and traitors, he was identified by patriots. He was jailed, pending whatever justice is to be meted out later through the regular French judicial procedure.

(Both Americans and Free French are taking every precaution to prevent patriots from carrying out private vengeance.) So much hatred toward Bouisson has been expressed that he was removed to Draguignan, where he was imprisoned by local gendarmerie. This morning patriots paraded him around other prisoners for the benefit of a French information service movie cameraman.

Observers felt that it must have been a bitter dose for Bouisson, who for 10 years was mayor of Marseille and formerly was national head of the Socialist party. He was forced to promenade with a motley throng of Gestapo spies and one prostitute with shaven head. Crowds jeered as Bouisson held his head down.

Back Home Again

LITTLE Elsie Whitehead has reason to smile, for she's just returned to her Pittsburgh home after a six-year stay in a children's hospital. When she was 18-months-old she swallowed a pin and seared her throat so badly that doctors despaired for her life. Her hospitalization finally ended the other day and she was gifted with the pup she's holding by her parents. (International)

SOLONS CLASH ON PEACE BILLS

Hopes Dimmed For Quick Approval Of George, Colmer Measures

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Prospects for speedy house approval of surplus property disposal legislation and the senate-passed George reconversion bill dwindled today as congress renewed its clash over fundamental policy in both measures.

House passage of the Colmer surplus property bill, which was slated for last Friday, was delayed when the senate tentatively opposed an overall property administration, thus paving the way for a possible impasse in a conference committee.

The senate military affairs committee approved legislation authorizing creation of an eight-member surplus property disposal board, a proposal already rejected by the house. The Colmer measure, which provides for disposal of an estimated 60 to 100 billion dollars in excess war goods, centralizes authority in a surplus property administrator.

Bi-partisan opposition in the house also developed over provisions in the Colmer bill for the disposition of government-owned plants. Amendments calling for congressional approval of sales of Army real estate and Navy vessels were expected to be presented by Chairman May (D) Ky, of the house military affairs committee. ### BRITISH READY FOR RETURN OF TOTS FROM U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—English parents who sent their children to America in 1940 to escape bombs and a threatened invasion of the island were ready today for their return, despite the robot hazard.

The United States committee for the care of European children reported that 610 of the 870 children sent to America still remain, but the parents are anxious for them to return. The parents were described as feeling that the robot bomb terror soon will be abated.

About 30 younger children have been returned since the robot bomb siege began in June and all youths reaching the age for military service have returned.

Yanks Near Paris From Three Directions—B-29's Set Big Jap Fires

BULLETIN
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 21—With American columns already across the Seine river on both sides of Paris, French patriots were reported battling the Nazis inside the city today in an effort to speed liberation of their capital which has been under the German yoke for 50 months.

Yank forces under command of Lt. Gen. George Patton made their way across the Seine river in the Mentes and Gassicourt area, 25 miles northeast of Paris and from the forest of Fontainebleau southeast of the capital.

BULLETIN
LONDON, Aug. 21—A Berlin foreign office spokesman was quoted by the German radio today as promising that "Paris will be spared from military operations just as we spared it in 1940."

BULLETIN
LONDON, Aug. 21—The Nazi DNB agency admitted today that Allied reconnaissance forces are in the suburbs of Paris. DNB added that shootings occurred in Paris between what it called "terrorists"—the German designation for French patriots—and "orderly citizens."

BULLETIN
WITH CANADIANS IN FRANCE, 11 A. M., Aug. 21—British forces under Canadian army command today moved to within three miles of Lisieux, vital communications center on the road to the Seine.

The chief German opposition is coming from small pockets and from snipers, as the tanks and infantry roll ahead through the driving rain which has been falling since dawn. Meanwhile, to the southwest, the Falaise pocket is being reduced hourly.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—The Navy announced today that American submarines operating in the Pacific and Far Eastern waters have sunk one Japanese light cruiser, one escort vessel, 17 cargo and supply vessels. In addition to the warships the American undersea craft destroyed one large tanker, three medium cargo transports, 11 medium cargo vessels and two small cargo vessels.

French forces of the American Seventh Army smashed to within three miles of the great southern French naval base of Toulon today while flying columns of French and American armor and infantry swept to the outskirts of Aix-En-Provence to sever all but one main escape channel for the Nazi garrisons of the Toulon and Marseilles areas.

Allied troops held strong positions near Aix-En-Provence, 15 miles north of Marseille, while other columns pushed north to bypass Pertuis, some 27 miles northeast of Marseille.

fore the naval base and flung an assault arc about the city. Allied warships pounded German shore and ship batteries in direct support of the advance, and Allied medium and dive bombers joined in the campaign to soften up the stubborn resistance of the wehrmacht units garrisoning the port. The British radio reported that the French assault waves were in the suburbs of the city.

Cutting Off Toulon

Further inland Allied columns raced to complete the cutting off of Toulon by severing the last escape route to the west, while still other spearheads drove through territory littered with the debris of a fleeing Nazi army which only stayed to fight in towns where French Maquis groups had surrounded the garrison and immobilized the Germans until the liberating armies arrived.

In northwestern France Allied units smashing forward to weld a new ring of steel about fleeing German Seventh Army forces drove to the Seine river at Mantes and Gassicourt, 17 miles northwest of Paris.

Frontline dispatches reported that street fighting raged within the French capital as Yank columns punched toward the city from three directions.

The Nazi radio admitted that American reconnaissance forces were in the suburbs of Paris but official confirmation of the claim was lacking.

Argentan Cleared

In Normandy, enemy forces were reported cleared from Argentan and American troops were said to be within three miles of Lisieux. An Allied spokesman said that it was too early to say whether or not the Nazis would defend Paris, but he added that the Allies had sufficient forces available to defend the bridgehead across the Seine.

This statement was seen as a hint that the Allies might seek to surround Paris, although headquarters continued to shroud the location, extent and strength of the bridgehead across the Seine.

German forces trapped in the Argentan-Falaise pocket were mercilessly hammered with artillery fire, and hundreds of prisoners have streamed into Allied lines. Allied mopping up operations continued in this area.

On the Russian front three Nazi divisions were wiped out north of Sandomierz in a Russian pocket and in Latvia. Red Army forces plunged forward 16 miles on the road to Riga, now only 55 miles away. In Lithuania and before Warsaw, Russian units smashed back desperate Nazi counter-attacks.

Huns Pushed Back

Renewed fighting flared on the Adriatic sector of the Italian front as British Eighth Army forces defeated German elements in hard fighting near San Constanza. The British victory pinned down German forces and thwarted a Nazi plan to withdraw forward lines toward the Metauro river.

Winston Churchill visited the American Fifth Army front where no great activity was reported. Churchill conferred with Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark and addressed American and Brazilian troops.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that Jap air strength was being pulled out of Halmahera island and the rest of the Moluccas in the face of overwhelming U. S. bombing assaults.

Pilots returning from double barreled Super Fortress assault on the Japanese homeland today reported they saw great fires raging over the vital enemy steel center at Yawata.

Set Great Fires

"Crews of the B-29's on the night mission reported that they could see fires burning from the previous attack 30 minutes before arriving over the target," a twentieth air force communique said.

Bombing results were reported in preliminary estimates as "fair."

Enemy opposition during the second attack was described as rather light and anti-aircraft fire was "moderate and inaccurate."

"Planes making the daylight attack met relatively strong fighter opposition and revised estimates of results show 15 enemy fighters claimed as destroyed, 13 probably destroyed and 12 damaged," the war department added.

There was no change in the original war department report that only four American planes have been reported lost due to enemy action in the two raids.

The twin assault indicated that the United States was moving to strike a knock-out blow at the Yawata area, site of Japan's great imperial steel works.

The initial attack reported Sunday was the first daylight operation against the Japanese homeland since the famous Tokyo raid

MORALE ISS KAPUT, NAZIS MAKE MITT DER MUSIC

WITH GERMAN MORALE hitting a new low, due to the incessant Allied air raids and the fearfully bad news from the four European fighting fronts, the Nazis have turned to music to bolster Fritz's sagging spirits. Here a German band "oom-pahs" its way past bomb-shattered buildings in hopes that the populace will just shut its eyes and listen. This picture, with its German title, "Boosting Morale," was received from a neutral source.

covered the Yunakanau and Matupit airdromes. Still other bombers winged over the Netherlands East Indies to smash at the oil producing areas of Celebes and Ceram. These raids also sank a 3,000 ton freighter and damaged a 500-ton cargo ship, three coastal vessels and six barges.

U. S. mediums hit Timor, and Dutch medium bombers blasted the Kai island airfield at Langgoer with 21 tons of explosives.

BOJANGLES AGAIN TO LEAD COLORED ELKS PARADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—Bill "Bojangles" Robinson tomorrow will lead the grand parade of the Independent Protective Order of Elks, largest Negro fraternal organization in the world.

That hardly is news, however, for the great Negro tap dancer has led every national parade of the organization for the last 25 years.

"Bojangles" is more than 66 years old, but his feet seem to fly as fast as ever.

Gov. Dwight H. Green of Illinois and Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago will deliver welcoming addresses at the opening session of the organization tomorrow.

DEAR DIARY

NEW YORK—Two items from a Japanese diary found some weeks ago:

December 8, 1943: Our battalion commander gladly informed us that in an engagement northeast of Guadalcanal our Navy has sunk four enemy warships, seven cruisers, seventeen aircraft carriers and countless transports. The American Pacific Fleet Commander also was killed. At present the death rate of Australians is so high that they cannot afford to send any reinforcements in the future.

cloud I saw three tanks receive direct hits.

At mid-morning a solitary figure strode toward the Allied positions. This was a medical officer of the German field hospital asking that the hospital be taken over by the Americans, as it was overflowing with wounded in the valley.

The barrage was lifted at one point while an American jeep with an American medical commander led the German ambulances with more than 300 casualties back into the Allied lines.

Directly in front of Chambois the Germans made a minor counter-attack with some effective mortar fire, but this soon was spent and the curtain of death came down on the doomed in the valley. It was the last grim act—the end of a German army.

and Rep. Mott (R), Ore., of the naval affairs committee, respectively.

Meanwhile, as President Roosevelt reportedly entered the house fight over the demobilization and reconversion bill, sponsored by Sen. George (D) Ga., the house ways and means committee began its second week of closed sessions over disputed unemployment compensation features of the measure.

Mr. Roosevelt is understood to generally endorse the senate-rejected Murray-Kilgore demobilization bill, which was backed by organized labor and in its final compromise form called for a maximum of $25 per week for unemployed war workers and veterans with dependents.

White House entrance into the reconversion battle also gave new strength to opponents of the George bill, which provides for federal guarantees of state unemployment benefits. Rep. Celler (D) N. Y., said he would introduce amendments on the floor calling for a $25 weekly maximum in unemployment payments for war workers and $35 for servicemen.

Pending agreement on mobilization and reconversion legislation, the ways and means committee was disclosed to have requested the treasury department to furnish an estimate of the cost involved in underwriting a $20 a week maximum in benefits.

This was recommended by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes. It extends to employers of one worker, instead of the present ceiling of eight employees, including federal workers, and furnishes up to $200 for post-war transportation of war workers and their families from their place of employment to their homes or new employment.

LaGUARDIA TAKES RAP AT POINT FREE MEAT

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, whose weekly radio chats with his constituents range from folksy advice to wrathful castigations, today had spoken his piece on the new point-free meat, which he called "C.I.—Civilian Issue."

He advised New Yorkers eating the point-free beef to "get your teeth fixed"—and to "learn how to cook it." He chided the War Food Administration for buying 100 million dozen eggs, which the agency cannot get rid of.

agreement, followed by a shorter conference with the delegates of China, Hull said "the conclusions reached will be communicated to the governments of all the United Nations and of other peace-loving nations."

The next step would be to open the entire project to the public view.

To Inform Public

"It is our further thought," said Hull, "that as soon as practicable, these conclusions will be made available to the peoples of our countries and of all countries for public study and debate."

The sessions which open today were planned nearly a year ago at the Moscow conference last October, when the proposal for a Washington meeting was made by Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

In the face of this delay, British delegate Cadogan urged the conference to "work fast and well," because, he said, "events are moving fast and peace may come sooner than some expect."

China will not be represented at the initial sessions due to Russia's neutrality pact with Japan. Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese foreign minister, is scheduled to arrive next week and will confer later with Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegate, following their discussions with Soviet ambassador to the U. S., Andrei A. Gromyko, the Russian representative.

The conference is expected to produce a formal document which will be a plan for the new world peace organization—a league of nations without the league's weaknesses.

To give the delegates a preliminary guidepost, it has been agreed to open the discussions with the plan already drawn up at the State department, a plan which is strikingly like the League of Nations, but to which has been added the use of force to prevent aggression.

RUSSIAN FLYERS GAIN STALIN'S SPECIAL PRAISE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—The Russian Air Force held the special acclaim of Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin today after a special order of the day from the Red leader announced that Soviet airmen held complete domination over the Luftwaffe.

In a special order of the day Sunday, Stalin decreed a 20-salvo salute from 224 guns in Moscow to honor the Russian flyers.

The order was broadcast by the Moscow radio.

GERMANS CLAIM HITLER TAKES ALLIES ATTACK FINAL LOOK AT HOSPITAL SHIP CHARTRES AREA

LONDON, Aug. 21—The German government has protested to the United States and Great Britain against an alleged attack by American and British planes on the German hospital ship Freiburg, the Nazi DNB agency said today.

Quoting its diplomatic correspondent, Dr. Siegfried Horn, DNB asserted that on Aug. 10, between 6:30 and 7:10 a. m. the hospital ship was attacked in the harbor of Venice.

The ship was said to have been damaged by "numerous" bomb fragments and three persons were declared to have been "severely" wounded. Others, including the ship's doctor and the ship's captain, were said to have been "slightly" wounded.

DNB said that Germany "expresses the expectation" that the alleged bombing "will be immediately investigated and that the German government will be informed of the investigation's result."

"The Reich government more-over requests explicit assurance," DNB continued, "that the British and United States governments have given the strictest orders to their forces to respect international law and that they have taken the necessary steps to enforce the obedience of these orders."

Zion National park, Utah, is named appropriately, for since early days its principal accessible feature has been called Zion Canyon by the Mormon settlers who said the great mountains forming the canyon walls were in truth temple of God. It was formerly called Mukuntuweap, the Indian name of the river.

KELLEY URGES YOUTH TRAINING

will be no more wars, he added, we must never allow the nation to be unprepared to meet any threat which may arise.

Highlighting the first day's session was a colorful parade of World War I veterans through downtown Columbus. Several thousand marchers took part in the parade and unestimated thousands witnessed it along a two-mile course.

The Franklin Post American Legion Band, of Columbus, was judged the best marching band in the parade. Other prize winners were: Barnett Post, Norwood, best drum and bugle corps; Barnett Post, best majorette; Ninth District (Cleveland), best marching unit; and Toledo's Sons of American Legion drum and bugle corps, best Sons of Legion unit.

Maj. Gen. James L. Collins, commanding general of the Fifth Service Command, Ft. Hayes, Columbus, was the reviewing officer and Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the state highway patrol, was grand marshal.

Clyde Irwin, of Warren, was elected grand chief de gare of the Grande Voiture D'Ohio of the 40 et 8 at that organization's one-day meeting. Edward S. Brock, of Dayton, was chosen grand chief de train; Herbert Wilson, Washington C. H., sous chef de train; A. B. McDaniel, Toledo, grand commissaire; and Larry Garrison, Van Wert, grand conducteur.

A. J. Halloran, Springfield, grand avocat; Joseph Carney, Cincinnati, grade gare de la porte; John C. Caskey, grand commissaire voyageur; Will J. Irwin, Cleveland, retiring grand chef de gare, cheminot national, and Larry Haggard, Columbus, cheminot national alter-nate.

The business sessions of the Legion actually get underway today and will include addresses by Col. William M. Duffy, manager of the social security office, Louisville, Ky.; Michael J. Lyden, president of the Ohio Federation of Labor; Lee Pennington, FBI inspector; Maj. Gen. Collins and Col. Mingle. The convention ends Tuesday morning with the election of officers.

GERMAN ENDS LIFE

DEFANCE, O., Aug. 21—A verdict of suicide by drowning was returned today in the death of Wolfgang Robasik, 22-year-old German prisoner of war assigned to a camp near Defance, whose body was recovered from the Maumee river. Camp officials said the prisoner had suffered from a severe stomach ailment. He disappeared from a work detail Saturday.

BROWNIES' LEAD CUT TO 3 1/2 GAMES BY DOUBLE LOSS

Red Sox Take Twin Victory; Tigers Move Into Third By Beating Yanks

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The future of the St. Louis Browns, which once was so bright, is shadowed with uncertainty today and the Browns are forced to concede that the American league pennant race is still, alas, a race. Apparently on their way to the first AL pennant ever recorded in St. Louis, the Browns suddenly halted and now are laboring under the misery of a four-game losing streak, with the Boston Red Sox only 3 1/2 games away. The last two defeats were applied by the Washington Senators, who snapped out of a last-place complex long enough to whip the Browns, 4 to 2 and 12 to 1, in a double-header Sunday.

Dutch Leonard broke his own six-game losing streak in the opener when he kept the basepaths clear of Browns throughout the last five frames. In limiting the St. Louis gang to four hits, Leonard charged off a loss to Denny Galehouse. In the nightcap, Early Wynn, in his last appearance before joining the Navy, scattered ten hits good for only one run. While the Browns were taking their lumps, the Red Sox climbed all over the Cleveland Indians to rack up two triumphs, 8 to 6 and 11 to 4. Seventh-inning homers by George Metkovich and Jim Tabor gave Red Barrett the opening win, while Ray Post absorbed the defeat. In the second game, the Red Sox pounded Ed Kileman and Paul Calvert for 16 hits, including a homer, triple and seven doubles to afford Rex Cecil an easy triumph. The New York Yankees, however, did not take advantage of the Brownie slump, but slumped themselves to fourth place in dropping two games to the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3 and 9 to 8. Although he needed the help of 20 game winner Hal Newhouse, Stubby Overmire chalked up the opening win as Hank Borowy lost. Dizzy Trout won his 20th in the nightcap on three Detroit home runs.

The Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics split a twin bill, the White Sox winning the opener, 3 to 2, then dropping the afterpiece, 8 to 3. A nice melee occurred in the sixth of the opener when second baseman Ray Schalk of the Sox muffed a pop fly with the bases loaded and one out. When the smoke cleared away, the A's had scored a run and been retired, all in one breath. The batter was ruled out on an infield fly and George Kell was automatically counted out when he managed to pass another man on the basepaths.

The Brooklyn Dodgers continued to amuse the National League. They not only dropped two of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 7 and 7 to 1, but had three players and a coach ousted for quibbling. Bobby Bragan, Luis Olmo, Whitlow Wyatt and Coach Charley Dressen were given the heave. Manager Leo Durocher, also under five-day suspension, continued to direct his team from a box. Jim Russell's seventh-inning homer with the sacks full clinched the opener for Max Butcher. Nick Strincevich won the nightcap on a seven-hitter.

The St. Louis Cards' winning streak stopped at nine straight when they trounced the Boston Braves, 15 to 5, then lost the afterpiece, 5 to 3. Walker Cooper hit two homers for the afternoon and six doubles were thrashed out by the Cards in the opener, which was won by Ted Wilks. Woody Rich won the nightcap on nine hits when Dee Phillips singled in two in the fourth.

The Cincinnati Reds took the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1, as Bucky Walters won his 18th game of the year, then lost in the afterpiece, 4 to 1. Walters won his own game with a twelfth-inning single. Charley Schanz took the nightcap on four hits.

The Chicago Cubs beat the New York Giants, 7 to 4, and lost the second, 3 to 1, as the Giants halted a 13-game losing streak. The straight losses set a record for that club.

WALTERS HITS HARD TO SCORE HIS 18TH WIN

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.—Bucky Walters counted his eighteenth victory of the season today but the Cincinnati Reds' mainstay was forced to win his own ball game.

Walters, who was a whale of a batter as a third baseman with the Philadelphia Nationals a few years ago, let his old Philadelphia teammates down with seven hits, hit safely four out of five times at bat and singled in the winning run in the twelfth inning as the Reds posted a 2-1 decision over the Phils in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader.

First Baseman Frank McCormick, continuing his hot batting spree, helped the Walters' cause considerably with his fourth-inning homer which put the Reds out in front.

The Phils came back to tie the count at 1-1 in the seventh and neither team threatened until the Reds succeeded in plating Steve Mesner in the last of the 12th. Walters' timely single sent Mesner scurrying home with the winning tally.

In the nightcap without the steady-pitching, hard-hitting Walters Cincinnati dropped a 4-1 decision to the Phils. Arnold Carter was tagged for the loss with the Phils' rookie John Schanz gaining all the credit. He gave up five hits, while Carter, assisted by Ed Heusser, allowed the Phils 14 safeties.

TAM O'SHANTER GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Golf's great three-ring extravaganza, the $42,500 All-American tournament, swung into action today practically at the crack of dawn at the Tam O'Shanter country club.

So crowded were the lists of those in quest of the All-American amateur championship that the management was running off the 18-hole qualifying round on two successive days, starting at 6 a. m. today and 6:30 a. m. Tuesday.

The All-American carrying the largest prize list ever offered in a fairway competition, is made up of three divisions, the amateur, the women's, and the All-American open.

Play will extend for seven days, with the first three days being occupied chiefly by qualifying rounds in the amateur, the women's open, and for the non-exempt entrants in the All-American open, along with practice rounds in all the divisions.

The tournament proper starts Thursday with a 72-hole medal test in the open, amateur and women's divisions.

Byron Nelson of Toledo and Harold "Jug" McSpaden of Philadelphia, the two professionals who have paced the 1944 money winners, were rated co-favorites for the open, although both were eliminated in the national PGA tournament in Spokane, Wash., which closed Sunday.

MISS BETZ WINS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21.—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles today had avenged her defeat at the hands of Louise Brough of Beverly Hills at Rye last week by defeating her 6-4, 6-3 to win the Longwood Cricket Club championship.

HENS CLING TO SECOND PLACE IN ASSOCIATION

By International News Service
The Toledo Mud Hens tussle with the Louisville Colonels for second place in the American Association pennant race continued at a heated pace today as both teams swept to Sunday double-header victories.

As the smoke of the week-end action cleared away the Mud Hens still clung to the runnerup spot by a half game. But only three percentage points separated the two clubs and if the Hens stub their toes Louisville might easily move into the coveted second spot.

Toledo ran roughshod over Min# neapolis Sunday, winning 3 to 0 and 12 to 1. Cliff Fanning and Al Lamacchia were the winning hurlers.

Louisville made it three in a row over Kansas City by defeating the Blues 6 to 5 and 12 to 7, with Vic Johnson and Bill Simonds gaining credit for the wins.

Meanwhile, the league leading Milwaukee Brewers crushed the Indianapolis Indians twice, 11 to 1 and 12 to 2. The double triumph gave the Brewers a season record of 20 victories in 21 starts against the Indians.

Columbus barely managed to remain in the first division by dividing its double bill with St. Paul, winning the nightcap, 4 to 0, after the Apostles took the opener, 8-4.

TRIBE DROPS TWO GAMES TO AMBITIOUS RED SOX

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 21.—The Boston Red Sox, battling to remain in the American League pennant quest, loosened all their revenge against the Cleveland Indians Sunday and today boasted a double victory which cut the St. Louis Browns' lead to three and a half games.

Although outlit, 14-10, the Red Sox took the opener, 8-6, winning on late-inning homers by Jim Tabor and George Metkovich, which scored three runs.

The Sox followed up in the nightcap with a 16-hit attack to defeat Ed Kileman and Ken Calvert, 11-4.

SEATS ALL SOLD FOR ALL STAR-BEAR GAME

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 21.—Every seat has been sold for the 11th annual all-star football game between the College All-Stars and the Chicago Bears in Dyche stadium the night of Aug. 30, it was announced today.

It was the quickest sellout in the history of the series and officials were studying the possibility of erecting temporary stands to handle part of the overflow.

SOUTH ENDERS SCORE 13-12 WIN OVER NORTH

South End Monday held a 13-12 decision over North End, scored Sunday in a junior softball league game played at Ted Lewis park.

The South Enders scored 10 runs in the third inning, to build up a lead which their opponents could not quite overcome.

Monday evening South End and West End are scheduled while Tuesday West End and North End are to meet.

IS NOT RATIONED!

WHAT individual or firm has not been guilty on occasion of using the war as an excuse for declining a request that could have been met easily with the proper attention? All of us have felt the restrictions of war in varying degrees but there comes a time when we must learn to live under those restrictions — to do the best job with what we have available. Are we aware that customers are keeping a mental journal — making credit and debit entries of the firms with whom it still is a pleasure to deal as well as those who slight the customer?

Merchandise is scarce, often unobtainable. Are we sure it cannot be had before informing the customer? Do we suggest a suitable substitute or the best means of prolonging the life of goods the customer has for the duration?

Manpower is scarce and inexperienced help has been employed. But after a reasonable period we learn to do the job with fewer personnel, and "green" help becomes trained under continual guidance of supervisors. Is the help problem used as an excuse for lack of supervision?

All business is governed by rules, both self-imposed and by law. Do we too often use the rule as an excuse for a refusal rather than give the customer every advantage in its interpretation? Do we take time to give the reason for the rule rather than abruptly apply the rule itself? Are we remembering that people like to be treated as individuals?

Do we consider that a customer's complaint is important to him or he wouldn't have raised it? A seemingly unreasonable request to us may appear justified to the customer because he lacks some of the facts we know about our business. Do we reply with a quick, "NO", or do we have the patience to explain the facts? Can we forget that in the past so many suggestions for improving the service — for setting new rules — came from the customers themselves?

Some people are prospering as a result of the war while many actually are pinched to make ends meet. Do we let the fact that some may look upon money lightly cause us to be unsympathetic to those suffering economic reverses? In closing our offices at night, do we hold the door for the last one to get in, or do we win the race and lose the customer?

Before the war we were grateful individually to the Jones, the Smiths, the Everybodies for their share in making our business possible. They were not just another account on our books — they were important people to us. The fact that we have a market for the entire supply of our product today makes these individuals no less important. We must continue to treat the individual with unrationed courtesy if we expect to have him as our customer after the war, when lifting of restrictions will permit him to trade where he pleases.

Being composed of some 2500 individuals, it is natural to assume that we in The Gas Company have made some mistakes, but we're spending a lot of time trying to lick these problems. Employees are showing enthusiastic cooperation. They understand that your business makes our business that makes their job. We've promised ourselves that, in dealing with you, we will not remind or infer the thing that all have learned through heart-rending experiences — that there's a war on.

THE VICTORY ROAD
It was a happy day when the news came from an American officer that the Germans trapped in Normandy had "ceased to exist as an army." The phrase is memorable and historic, and a model for many a similar conquest. As the days and weeks pass now, on all our great battle fronts, the power of our enemies will be broken more and more, and their remnants taken or scattered. There will be some setbacks, no doubt, but the waves of victory will roll up alike in the east and west. The forces of decency, peace and common sense will prevail.

It need not be lightly assumed that, almost at one battle-stroke, every civilized man will find himself sitting again, in the fine old Scriptural phrase, "under his own vine and fig tree." There is still many a battle to win, many a river to cross, before general peace settles down upon this devastated earth. But the way is now clear and the victory is in sight.

God grant that, when it comes, there may be no repetition of the fatheaded futility which accompanied the winding up of the last world war, but that civilized men of good will, world view and a touch of divine statesmanship will take over our scourged world in hand and begin to realize its possibilities.

THE TROUBLE WITH WAR
ONE reason for the hope that war may be abolished is the way in which it gets out of hand and surprises the people who called it into being. Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University, who had charge of the American Peace Commission's library in 1918-19, says: "As a political device war has become as capricious as a machine-gun out of control; it is by no means the sharp-edged instrument of national policy which the statesmen of the past turned over to soldiers to attain some definite end."

Even Hitler must now be convinced that his recourse to war was not so bright after all.

FLYER AND WRITER
PEOPLE interested in reading about air flights (and who isn't?) will be sorry to hear that Antoine de Saint Exupery is missing in a mission over France. Five years ago Saint Exupery became famous through his "Wind, Sand and Stars," an account of his adventures and even more his impressions in flying flimsy mail craft from Toulouse, France, to Dakar on the West African coast. Later came "Night Flight" and "Flight Over Arras," an account of futile war flights during the French collapse.

Beautifully written, their only rival was the air diaries of Anne Morrow Lindbergh. There must be something in the aviator's remoteness from the world to inspire superb writing, provided, of course, that the gift be there in the first place.

Inside WASHINGTON

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—Contrary to some reports, the British and Russian governments are said to be closer together in at least one vital particular than the British and American governments. This is with regard to the all-important matter of imposing sanctions against an aggressor.
The American proposal, it is said, calls for a unanimous vote in the council of the new league of nations before sanctions can be imposed. The British and Russian governments are reported to be in agreement on the idea of not requiring a unanimous vote.
The British are said to be advocating a majority vote in some cases and a two-thirds vote in other, more important ones. The Soviet position, said to be reflected in a Russian publication, advances the argument that a major weakness of the old League of Nations was the requirement of a unanimous vote on imposition of sanctions.
● ORGANIZED LABOR, given a sound beating in the Senate on the issue of reconversion, is now expected to make a drive to liberalize the George bill in the House. Their power will be directed especially against conservative provisions on unemployment compensation, which leaves the question of higher post-war benefits to the states to decide.
The unions, including the A. F. L., C. I. O. and railroad brotherhoods presented the unusual picture of having a united front during the Senate battle, and the defeat of the cause they espoused is considered a political straw in the wind by astute Washington observers.
● THE BRITISH AND DUTCH, who controlled about 90 per cent of the world sources of crude rubber before the war, are extremely worried about the U. S. synthetic rubber industry which is likely to keep this country from ever again being caught short of this vital

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The four-power conference opening at Dumbarton Oaks this week holds more promise for making this "the war to end wars" than any event since Versailles. But it starts with two strikes against it; will have very tough sledding.

Strike No. 1 is Dewey's blast against the conference.
Cordell Hull, it is true, has not sufficiently consulted smaller nations. But conscientiously, sincerely, though belatedly, he is trying to carve out an international machine to keep the peace after this war.

He began late, was pushed into it by men like Sumner Welles, Rep. Fulbright and the B2 H2 Senators. Nevertheless, Mr. Hull is now in deadly earnest, should be given a chance to do his best without too much political boat-rocking.

Strike No. 2 is old-fashioned superficial diplomacy, which puts more emphasis on picky formalities than on heading off the possibility that the youth of the world may go to war again.

Already the old-fashioned diplomats have begun jockeying. Russia had felt that a conference of this kind was so important, it should be handled by the top men of the world—Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin. Secretary Hull, however, wanted it to be a conference of Foreign Ministers, somewhat like that which he attended in Moscow last Fall. In the end, since Stalin Roosevelt, et al., are not doing the job, the Russians will be represented by a virtual diplomatic messenger, Soviet Ambassador Gromyko, already stationed in Washington.

Prior to this, the Chinese were to be represented by one of their leading diplomats, Victor Hu, long-time Chinese delegate to the League of Nations. But when they heard the Russians would only be represented by Gromyko, the Chinese decided also to be represented by their Ambassador in Washington. In other words, they didn't want to play the conference up one diplomatic notch higher than the Russians.

As a result of this jockeying, the State Department feels that Secretary Hull, being a Foreign Minister, should not deal with lesser lights across the same table, that this should be done by Undersecretary of State Ed Stettinius. Hull, therefore, will make speeches at the opening and closing of the conference but will not be active in the day-to-day sessions, where the real peace plan will be born.

Note—On the desk which the Undersecretary of State will use at Dumbarton Oaks, home of Ambassador Robert Woods Bliss, young Stettinius found this card: "Trust in Allah but tie your camel. Mildred and Robert W. Bliss."

RUSSIAN PEACE PLAN
Actually, the Russians are reported to have prepared a broad plan for future peace machinery, not too far out of line with British-American ideas.

They are reported to believe: (1) that the four big powers must be responsible for keeping the peace (regardless of Governor Dewey); (2) that the Big Four should comprise a council similar to the League's Council; (3) that the smaller nations should be members of an assembly holding meetings for consultation; (4) that the Big Four should maintain a punitive air force which could strike at any country which tried to upset the peace of the world.

THE SPECIALTY of the nose and throat was not joined to that of the ear just because all the structures and organs involved happen to be above the collar line. The nose, throat and ear combine to form a physiologic unit. They are connected together anatomically by the Eustachian tube, the membrane lined semi-collapsible passage from the back of the throat to the middle ear. Infections of the throat always threaten the ear. Nearly all acute disease of the ear and many, if not most, of the chronic diseases of the ear originate from some disorder of the nose or throat.

No better illustration of this can be brought forward than the brilliant demonstration of Dr. Costen, of St. Louis, that in many elderly people their deafness dates from removal of all the teeth and results from the toothless lower jaw closing so completely that it shuts off the lower end of the Eustachian tube in the back of the throat.

Acute diseases of the nose, throat and ear are usually amenable to successful treatment, although the conditions are often complicated and require skillful handling.

Chronic Disorders
Chronic disorders of the nose, throat and ear are notoriously stubborn and resistant to treatment. The subject of one of these disorders must reconcile himself, or herself, to adjustment rather than final and complete cure. Modern medical science has, however, devised a number of methods of treatment that improve even if they do not completely cure these conditions.

Chronic sinus infection of the nose occurs in three predominant forms — (1) chronic suppurative sinusitis, which arises from a pus infection; (2) hyperplastic sinusitis, which is partly, or largely, due to allergy or hypersensitiveness to foods or dust or flowers or odors, and (3) mixed forms, which are greatly in the majority.

One of the most important lessons that nose specialists have learned about these conditions is the role of allergy in the causation of discomfort. A person may start with a pure germ infection in his sinuses, but after he has had it a while he acquires an allergy, a sensitiveness to foods and dusts which did not use to affect him at all.

Allergy Tests
In diagnosis of these conditions, allergy tests are added to the fundamental examinations of history, intranasal inspection, transillumination, X-ray, and study of the secretions. Treatment stresses systemic factors involving general health, removal of local mechanical obstruction to proper drainage, local treatment and control of allergic irritations. These last have largely replaced the repeated surgical operations that formerly were so frequent. Proetz's dictum is now more often observed—"More surgery is almost never an improvement on too much surgery done before."

Chronic ear infections, especially in children, are now recognized as usually due to enlarged and infected adenoids. The consequent complete, or partial, blockage of the orifices of the Eustachian tubes results in slowly progressing deafness and recurring attacks of middle ear suppuration. Before the age of puberty recurrence is very common after removal of the adenoids. For these cases, because the infected adenoid tissue is spread over such a wide area, complete surgical removal is impossible and the most modern improvement in treatment of such cases is irradiation in doses too small to injure surrounding structures. Radium or radon applied by a special applicator is of great value in such a form of treatment.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU

by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE
"What's the matter with you?" he demanded. "Lately you've been pretty brusque with me."
"Matthew, don't be utterly stupid. If Lynn and your mother are in love with each other, if they decide—as I hope they will—to marry, it is certainly not your affair."
He said, half amused, half angry, "Judy, you're the most incurably romantic woman!"
"Matthew."
"What?"
"Let's talk about something else. Christmas, for choice. I thought we had planned to spend the day, and Christmas Eve if you could manage it, at Little Place by ourselves, except for your mother."
"I know, but I think an eggnog party would be amusing. We could take Olga and Nils up."
He stopped the car in front of their apartment, and let her out. "I'll leave the car out," he said, "in case I'm called."
The chauffeur had the day off, rather to Matthew's annoyance. Judith waited for him in the lobby while he found a parking space and they went upstairs together. When she had taken off her things she came into the living room to find him smoking, by the radio, and dance music playing. She asked, "Would you turn that off a moment, Matthew. I want to talk to you."
He clicked the dial and said contritely, "I forgot your headache. Wait a moment, I'll get something for it."
"Never mind. It's better."
"Good! Come here and sit beside me, darling."
"No, if you don't mind."
"I do mind. What's come over you?"
"Nothing, suddenly. Are you—is your heart set on this Christmas party?"
"It isn't that important," he told her, frowning, "but—"
"I won't be there," she declared. "You won't be there? What do you mean?"
"I think I'll go to the Coast and spend the holiday with my mother."
"Your mother! But you can't," he said; "that's absurd. You belong here, with me." He shook his head angrily.
"Matthew—" Judith stood by the mantel and looked at him as he sat in the big chair, his pipe in his hand, his long legs outstretched—"listen to me: I am going west. I thought about it last night and made up my mind today, at your mother's. I don't know how long I'll stay."
The quick blood rose to his forehead and receded. "Are you trying to say that you propose to leave me?"
"That's what I want to decide."
He got to his feet, went over to the fireplace, and took her unresisting hands in his. "Because I suggested a Christmas party at Little Place? Well, it's off, if that's the way you feel about it."
"That doesn't help matters," she said gently. "This is one of the times when you feel it expedient to give in, that's all. But Christmas wouldn't be much fun, knowing that you felt you had made a sacrifice."
He said hotly, "I don't understand you!"
"Perhaps that's it," she said, "we don't understand each other, Matthew."
He pulled her toward him so suddenly that she almost lost her balance. He was, she noticed, laughing a little, as he kissed her.
When he released her, Judith was very pale, under the rouge. He said, "You can't get away from me, darling, not ever."
"I can try," she said, her breathing quickened and her eyes enormous, fixed upon him. "That's why I want to go, Matthew."
He asked, "Are you trying to say that you no longer love me?"
"No, it wouldn't be true. I do love you," Judith said, "but not enough to remain your wife."
Matthew said swiftly, "You're ill, darling; let me put you to bed. As a doctor—"
"You can spare me the clinical details. I know. I don't discount the attraction between us. It is as nearly perfect as anything can be. But it isn't everything, Matthew. That's why I want to leave you, for a while... to think things through, away from you, and to make up my mind whether or not I can return to you."
Matthew said, after a moment, "If you leave me, Judy, you needn't come back."
She said, "All right, Matthew, and, turning, left the room."
An hour or so later Judith heard the telephone ring, and a little after that the slam of the front door. He had gone out on a call. She lay perfectly still in the empty apartment, with her head and heart hammering, painful blows. "You needn't come back," he had said. She found herself crying, slow, aching tears. I just wanted to give us a chance, she told herself... I thought, if he finds that he really needs me— Judith was ill, she was frightened. She thought, if he comes back and takes me in his arms... When Matthew did return it was a little while before he came into the bedroom. He did so finally, sitting down on the bed, beside her. It was dark in the room.
He said, "You don't mean it, Judy, do you?"
"Yes," she answered, "I mean it."
"But why—" he was no longer angry, but as baffled as a small boy—"why? What have I done?"
"You've done nothing, except forget to admit me to a partnership. Matthew, love, the sort of love that endures, is a trinity... heart and mind and body. I haven't any place in your mind."
"I don't know what you're talking about."
"That's just it," said Judith faintly. "I can't make you understand. I thought if I went away, if we both had time to think, that you might realize..."

is likely to make a sensitive person think the whisperers are saying something about him.
Today's Horoscope
A birthday today means that with your magnetic and strong personality, you have great powers for good or evil; people instinctively follow your lead. You are critical, rather opinionated, aggressive, adaptable, and your judgment is usually accurate. You enjoy music and try to make your home pleasant and attractive. Your next year calls for watchfulness and circumspection in love and domestic matters, also dealings with elders. Do not be over-trusting; avoid changes, and safeguard your health. Born today a child will exhibit a somewhat peculiar and perverse temperament and be difficult to understand. Patience and tact will be necessary to draw out the latent fine qualities.

WHEN NOT TO DOUBLE
ORDINARILY an informative or takeout double is the very best device to use when you are prepared to support a bid of any suit except the one called by your opponent. The careless thinker would tell you offhand that fair length and strength in the other three suits is the ideal situation for such a double. But you should always consider one other factor. Would you be pleased if your partner made a "business pass," called by some a "penalty pass," on a hand of fair strength, with some of it and pretty good strength in the opponent's suit?

BLUE RIBBON SCORES 4-3 WIN OVER GRILL TEAM

Blue Ribbon softballers scored a 4-3 victory over 20th Century Grill team of Columbus Sunday at Ted Lewis park.

Two runs in the first inning and two in the sixth gave the locals a victory. The visitors scored once in the first frame and twice in the second but were shut out from then on by Jim Wells.

Blue Ribbon got only five hits, three of them by Leon Sims who had a perfect day at bat. Wells gave the Columbus boys six safeties.

Only one game of the scheduled doubleheader was played because of the late arrival of the Columbus team.

NELSON LOSES GOLFING TITLE TO "UNKNOWN"

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 21—Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., had a big loving cup full of cash today in just reward for his spectacular capture of the national P. G. A. championship Sunday by defeating Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., the tournament favorite, one up.

Hamilton's defeat of Lord Byron before a gallery of 7,000 fans was just one of a series of upsets that saw such ranking money-shooters as Harold "Jug" McSpadden, Sam Byrd and Craig Wood vanish from competition before the semi-finals were decided.

In their place, a trio of comparative new-comers rose to challenge Nelson.

"HOT" MUSICIANS SLATED

On ocarina player and a live vocalist will turn loose their talents on the "Screen Test" program in the broadcasts Tuesday and Wednesday. Slated for the Tuesday show is Redd Evans, considered America's finest hot "sweet potato" player, and composer of such hits as "Rosie the Riveter" and "He's I-A in the Army." Karole Singer, featured vocalist with Vincent Lopez' orchestra, is on the Wednesday broadcast.

DUNNINGER PLANS MIRACLE

Because thousands of somewhat skeptical listeners couldn't believe what they heard the first time, Dunninger, in answer to their requests, will repeat his famed "Double Mental Miracle" during his program on Wednesday. The Master Mentalist, will ask his three judges—Abel Green, editor of "Variety"; Walter Poor, president of the Sylvania Corporation, and Milena Miller, popular songstress who became Miss New Yorker of 1943—to leave the studio during the broadcast of the program and write a message on a slate. While the judges are still outside the studio, Dunninger will attempt to receive the message by thought transference and project that thought to some unsuspecting member of the studio audience.

GUARDSMEN TO SEE HARRIS

Professor Phil Harris, substituting for the vacationing Professor Kay Kyser, will take his "College of Musical Knowledge" troupe to the Coast Guard Air Base at Lindbergh Field, San Diego, Calif., for the Wednesday broadcast.

MASSEY PLAYS DOCTOR

Adding another radio portrait to his gallery of men in white, Raymond Massey will star in an original drama based on the true adventures of a doctor at war for "The Doctor Fights," on Tuesday. Dr. Rudolph Matas, a leading authority on tropical diseases and a member of the faculty of New Orleans university's medical school, will be the guest speaker.

New bandleader for "Screen

Test" programs on Mondays through Fridays is Ted Steele, young batoneer who started in radio as a page boy. Steele, who can play practically any instrument and is a novachord specialist, replaces Henry Sylvern, who is leaving to become head of music in the east for a motion picture company.

Felix Mills is the new bandleader on "The Man Called X" which stars Herbert Marshall.

Howard Smith, the "Mr. and Mrs. North" actor, is beginning to suspect the show's writers of doubling in motion pictures, under different names. In a recent "Mr. and Mrs. North" script, he was cast as Mr. Crane... and a few days later, he turned up under the same name, in a commercial motion picture.

Phil Kramer, stooge on the Harry Savoy series Thursday nights, speaks through his nose. Savoy asked him the other day what school he had attended. Said Kramer, "The U. S. Nasal Academy."

Although "Ziegfeld Follies" closed only a few weeks ago, hard-working Milton Berle has already added several pounds now that he's concentrating on his "Let Yourself Go" radio show only. Berle will continue resting away from the theatre until next season when the Shuberts will star him in a musical comedy with a Brazilian locale.

Bridegroom Kay Kyser, radio's "Old Professor" of the "College of Musical Knowledge" programs, returned to Hollywood this week with his bride, the former Georgia Carroll, following a sojourn in Mexico City where Kay, under doctor's orders, has been taking a rest cure after seven vacationless years on the air.

County Educators Watch Move To Hoist Teachers' Salaries

SHORTAGE NOT SO SERIOUS IN LOCAL REGION

Circleville Staff Full And Few Vacancies Exist In Rural Areas

Pickaway county educators Monday were watching with interest progress of plans for a special session of the Ohio legislature to increase salaries of teachers in the state.

Circleville and county schools apparently are in better shape to start the school year than many places. State Director of Education Kenneth C. Ray Monday stated many schools will be unable to open September 5 because of the teacher shortage. At present the Circleville staff is complete and there are only a few vacancies in the county.

Mr. Ray said teachers were leaving schools at the rate of 10 a day to enter armed services or work in war plants. If that average continues, he said many more schools would be forced to cease operations before the end of the school term.

Urges Pay Hoist

Last week it became known Ray has recommended that Gov. Bricker call a special session of the legislature to study possible salary increases as a means of halting further wholesale migrations from the teaching profession. But even pay increases will not fully solve the critical situation, Ray asserted. They will, however, enable the schools to hold onto their remaining staffs and possibly induce a share of those who have quit the profession to return.

Although Ray preferred not to discuss his recommendations to the governor, he did point to other states in which teachers' salaries have been increased from 10 to 15 percent to compensate for the increased cost of living.

However, it was understood the legislature, if called, will be asked to appropriate upward of $8,000,000. This figure would mean an average yearly increase of $200 for the state's 38,000 teachers. If all school employees were included the increase would amount to about $175 per employee.

Since Pearl Harbor some 10,000 teachers have quit Ohio's public school system. State education officials estimate that one-third of this number has been absorbed by the armed forces, another third by war plants or other private industry and the remainder has quit for marriage or other normal reasons.

Low Replacements

The supply of replacements has been only about 20 percent of normal. To substantiate this, Ray pointed out that there were only 275 provisional elementary teaching certificates issued in 1944 against 2,067 in 1938. High school certificates issued in 1938 totaled 3,006, while only 612 were issued to college graduates this year.

Approximately 4,800 under-trained teachers, some with less than a year and a half of college experience, were certified last year by the department of education. This year the department expects to certify between 5,500 and 6,000 under-trained teachers, according to Harold J. Bowers, state supervisor of teacher education.

Even so, there will be upward of 2,500 vacancies in the teaching force when Ohio's 1,053,157 public school children march back to their classes next month.

Would Hold Teachers

By increasing salary scales now Ray believes teachers who have remained in the profession throughout the war will be encouraged to continue in their work. In addition, many persons trained as teachers but now engaged in other work may also be induced to enter the teaching field.

Ray pointed out that about 50 percent of the graduates of Ohio's teacher-training institutions since 1939 have not entered the profession. Ray acknowledged that a large share of this group has been called to service, but those who have entered war work or other private endeavors are especially sought now.

Contrary to public opinion, the present teacher shortage probably will not be eased immediately after war. Although thousands of Ohioans now in service were engaged in, or were training for the teaching profession, there are now about 10,000 married women filling in during the emergency as teachers. Most of these women, state education authorities believe, will want to devote their full time to the home with the return of their husbands. Also many former teachers now in private enterprise probably will decide to remain there rather than return to the classroom.

Meanwhile, the need for teachers will grow greater than ever before, as child enrollment continues on the upswing. Within five years it is estimated enrollment in the state's elementary schools will have increased 83,537 over last year's enrollment of 665,307.

an international police force. Roosevelt has come out against such a force. The Democratic platform at Chicago straddled the issue. Wendell Willkie is for such a force.

Instead of an international police force, Roosevelt proposes that the Big Four should keep their own individual armies and navies and use them to subdue an aggressive nation. Only trouble is that, when the French and some British proposed doing this against Germany when Hitler invaded the Rhineland in 1936, the British would not use their army to support the French. Shortly thereafter, Hitler overran Europe.

This all-important point probably will be merely explored at Dumbarton Oaks. Final decision will be passed on to Roosevelt, Churchill, Stalin, with the U. S. Senate and the November election wielding a potent power in the background.

LA GUARDIA AND ITALY

New York's busy little mayor, Fiorello La Guardia, isn't saying anything about it, but he has turned down President Roosevelt's request that he fly to Rome, survey the Italian political situation for the U. S. Government.

La Guardia long has been extremely anxious to go to Italy. However, he flatly won't take the job unless he can return to Italy wearing a U. S. uniform. The Little Flower was a major in the last war, has been itching to get into uniform again, but Secretary of War Stimson turned him down, saying he was doing a better job for the City of New York.

Meanwhile, La Guardia has stopped broadcasting to Italy on Sunday nights. Little was heard about it on this side of the ocean, but observers returning from Italy report that La Guardia is the greatest single American hero of the Italian people, probably was the most widely listened-to speaker on the Allied radio in any enemy country during this war.

FDR'S RADIO "FLOP"

One thing on which both Republicans and Roosevelt friends agree, is that his Bremerton Navy Yard radio address fell flat, lacked the old FDR zingo. Inside fact is that the President prepared the speech cold, without any outside help. No "ghosts" were along.

It was reported that Judge Samuel I. Rosenman was along on the entire trip and helped draft the Bremerton talk. Real fact, however, is that Rosenman and Elmer Davis, OWI chief, left the President at Pearl Harbor. Davis flew on to Saipan and Guam, Rosenman back to the White House.

NOTE—One friend, listening to the President's broadcast, remarked: "It's so bad that 'Pa' Watson must have written it."

DOUGHBOY JEWELRY

Secret weakness of the Army-Navy post exchanges has turned out to be jewelry. Perhaps because it glitters, perhaps because high-pressure salesmen have been too persuasive, the post exchanges are stocked up with costume jewelry until they groan.

One small North Carolina air base, Pope Field, with only 400 men, has a total of $16,000 in costume jewelry awaiting sale in its post exchange. At Fort Bragg, N. C., a larger camp, $91,000 in jewelry is awaiting lethargic buyers.

The situation is so bad that the Navy has issued a stop order for the whole Eastern area on any more post-exchange purchase of jewelry.

CHICKENS STOLEN

Frank Willis, tenant on the Marcus Rife farm in Walnut township, reported Monday to Sheriff Charles Radcliff the theft of 40 chickens. He stated they were New Hampshire Reds and white and barred rocks and weighed about three pounds each.

AUTOS DAMAGED

Property damage only resulted Sunday at 11:30 p. m. when the parked car of Lloyd E. Davis, 1002 South Court street, was struck by an auto driven by Ray Heffner, Route 3, Circleville, at Walnut and Court street, Patrolman Elmer Merriman reported.

4H CLUB NEWS in Pickaway County

Logan Elm Sew Smart Club

The Logan Elm Sew Smart 4-H club held its regular meeting at Pickaway school with 12 members and visitors present. The business meeting was opened with the National and 4-H club pledge, led by the president. We worked on club projects, played games and refreshments were served by Joyce Baldoser and Nancy Evans.

The next meeting, August 23, will be at 2:30 p. m. at the school building.

Marilyn Miller, news reporter.

Do It Yourself

The Do It Yourself 4-H sewing club met August 15 at Monroe township school with 12 members and two visitors, Mrs. Caudy and Mrs. Brigner, present.

At our picnic, August 31, the following members will give demonstration: Nancy Neff and Grace Ellen Anderson, on towels; Mary Lou Caudy and Helen Winfough, on aprons; Sue Neff and Patty Dick, on dresses. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Hosler at 2 p. m.

Helen Winfough, news reporter.
